An Ancient Peace is Shattered...

...and a desperate escape begins.

Peace has reigned over Aereas for five hundred years. After millenia of conflict, the Am'Segid people have turned their once war-ravaged planet into an idyllic utopia healing the sins of their fathers.

After a summer spent laboring at an archaeological dig, Calier is looking forward to returning to his city, his family and his post as a professor at the university. A historian, he knows better than most what a blessing it is to live in this time of unprecedented peace and cooperation. However, his worst fears are realized as he witnesses the brutal destruction of the city by a mysterious invading army.

Thrust into a confusing new world of death, carnage and war, Calier must navigate the enemy infested streets of the city he calls home. Separated from his loved ones and with no knowledge of their survival, Calier is forced to make the impossible decision of leaving them in fate's hand. His fate lies along another road. A road that leads out of the city and into the beautiful, but wild Aerean wilderness.

Rescuing Berit, an injured young woman, Calier feels the added weight of responsibility to return her to her family. Leaning upon Maltoki, a former graduate student, for help, Calier looks for safety and answers to where the black uniformed army comes from and why they have turned Aereas into a planet of war once again.

Q: How would you describe the Farpointe Initiative Series?

A: It's part science fiction survival story and part science fiction invasion story. Ash is straight up pedal to the floor, get out of the city, action-adventure. As the series progresses, we see the bigger story. Who are the invaders and what are their plans not only for Aereas, but for the Am'Segid people as well.

Q: Where did the idea for the planet of Aereas come from?

A: I think in all of us there is this yearning for something better. We all know our world is broken, yet we can't seem to get it together and fix it. So I imagined a world where the people were pushed to the brink, and then decided to turn back and build something better for themselves. Honestly, it's just the world I would want to live in. That's where Aereas came from.

Q: Why do you write science fiction?

A: Uhh, I was unaware there were any other kind of books. Just kidding. Ever since I was young, I've loved space ships and stories about other planets. It stretches my imagination and makes me think about what might be out there beyond our solar system.

Q: What does it mean to you when someone buys your books?

A: Honestly, a sense of wonder. I mean, it has been a dream of mine for a long time to write and publish books. When someone I don't know takes the time to buy, read, and leave a review; it humbles me. To all you readers, from the bottom of my heart, thank you.

Editorial Review

From the Author

Ash is the opening salvo in much bigger story. I wanted to throw you into the world of Aereas without letting you take much time to look around and enjoy the scenery of this gorgeous planet.

This book and most of the series, takes place on a distant planet. I wanted to imagine a planet that was wild, but the people who lived there were cultured and refined. They'd learned to live with the wildness, be safe from it, but embrace it as well. That's what Aereas is to me.

Book two, Sojourners, picks up right where Ash leaves off and will open up the planet and story a bit more. We learn who the invaders are and a bit of why they've come.

Book three, Harbinger, introduces several new characters who will play a pivotal roll in the unfolding plot and we get the full picture of the mysterious invaders sinister plan.

Book four, unnamed at this point, wraps up the story in an exciting climax. My hope that you won't really be able to catch your breath until you've finished the book and shut down you're reading device.

The Farpointe Initiative Series, is big and epic and so much fun to write. I hope you enjoy it as much as I have.

About the Author

Hi!

I'm Aaron Hubble, just a regular guy with a big imagination. I've tried to contain it over the years with boring jobs, but it just wouldn't stay put.

So, now I let it out to play and write down the stories that flow out. For the most part, I love science fiction and that is what I plan to write. If you'll come along with me, I'll take you to distant planets, give you ride on fantastic interstellar ships, and introduce you to some pretty cool people.

As much as I'd like to be doing this for a living, I still need the day job. So, during the day I'm a woodworker, turning big pieces of wood into smaller ones and hoping they look like furniture when I'm done. I live in Central Michigan with my wife Tracie (who helps me with these adventures) and my two daughters, Lillian and Claire.

When I'm not writing or woodworking, I'm usually reading or getting outside to run or do a little yard work. We try to do a little camping during the short Michigan summer.

Thanks for stopping by. I hope you enjoy the books and come back for more. Make sure you let me know what you think.

Later.
